

Abstract

The invention relates to a computerized handheld substantially pocket size device (10) for satiety registering and satiety response and a method therefore. It is utilized in aiding a person, in a controlled manner, to appreciate when to eat, comprising in-/output 5 means (12, 16), electronic memory, a display screen (14) and a modified Borg type scale (18) for rating of satiety.